"The health and well-being of workers is important not just for employees, but also for employers. Studies have shown that a healthier and happier workforce is more productive. Therefore, it is crucial that companies do all they can to improve their staff’s health and well-being, Worcestershire Works Well is a great accreditation scheme that I encourage all local businesses to make the most of."

Mike Ashton
CEO, Herefordshire & Worcestershire Chamber of Commerce

"The positive impact that employment can have on health and well-being is now well documented. There is also strong evidence to show how having a healthy workforce can reduce sickness absence, lower staff turnover and boost productivity – this is good for employers, workers and the wider economy."

Professor Dame Carol Black

"60% of workers would feel more loyal and motivated if they felt their boss invested in measures to support their well-being."

(MIND survey, 2013, prepared by Populus)

"The key to the success of any young company is its people. After hearing about Worcestershire Works Well we felt that its strategic and holistic approach met our objectives perfectly. With a lower than average absence rate and low staff turnover, we can see the benefits of adopting a health and well-being culture on a daily basis. Worcestershire Works Well made it possible to achieve this. The accreditation comes with the highest recommendations from Titania!"

Shelley Gunnell
Human Resources Manager, Titania

"131 million days were lost due to sickness absences in the UK in 2013"
